CLASS SYSTEMS

What is a Class System?

Throughout history, groups of people have been divided into many different categories. These categories are called classes. People create the categories. Race, gender, money, and power are all ways that people are sorted into different classes.

Sometime there is conflict between classes. This is usually because the people in the lower classes do not always have the opportunities that the people in the upper classes do. Although classes are easier to see in some places, almost every group of people has some sort of class system.
