

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 The movie we saw last night bombed.

The word bombed is a colloquialism meaning:

A the theatre was blown up by a bomb.
B the movie was very good.
C the movie was about a bomb.
D the movie was not very good.

2 A medical doctor talking to another doctor might say that a patient has a bilateral probital hematoma. This phrase is medical _____.

A colloquialism
B jargon
C informal vocabulary
D email convention

3 I need some dough before I can buy my sister a present.

This sentence is an example of _____.

4 Please see the attachment for my report. Let me know if you need further information. If anyone whom I have copied in has any suggestions, feel free to contact me _____.

5

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 "sweater is too cute!"

This sentence is an example of _____.

A colloquialism
B jargon
C formal vocabulary
D email convention

A I am going to veg out in front of the TV.
B The gardeners were discussing how to mulch the perennials.
C The alarm clock I have was a freebie from the bank.
D JoAnn was blown away by all the birthday gifts she received.

9 As you begin to write an email message, it is good practice to be very secretive and to keep the reader guessing about what you write on the subject line.

10 I need to reformat the disk and reprogram the peripherals.

This jargon is most likely to be used by:

A people in the restaurant business.
B people in the auto mechanics business.
C people in the music business.
D people in the computer business.

Name _____ Class _____ Date _____

1 The movie we saw last night bombed.

The word bombed is a colloquialism meaning:

A the theatre was blown up by a bomb.
B the movie was very good.
C the movie was about a bomb.
D the movie was not very good.

2 A medical doctor talking to another doctor might say that a patient has a bilateral probital hematoma. This phrase is medical _____.

A colloquialism
B jargon
C informal vocabulary
D email convention

3 I need some dough before I can buy my sister a present.

This sentence is an example of _____.

4 Please see the attachment for my report. Let me know if you need further information. If anyone whom I have copied in has any suggestions, feel free to contact me _____.

PREVIEW

Please Sign In or Sign Up to download the printable version of this worksheet

7 "sweater is too cute!"

This sentence is an example of _____.

A colloquialism
B jargon
C formal vocabulary
D email convention

A I am going to veg out in front of the TV.
B The gardeners were discussing how to mulch the perennials.
C The alarm clock I have was a freebie from the bank.
D JoAnn was blown away by all the birthday gifts she received.

9 As you begin to write an email message, it is good practice to be very secretive and to keep the reader guessing about what you write on the subject line.

10 I need to reformat the disk and reprogram the peripherals.

This jargon is most likely to be used by:

A people in the restaurant business.
B people in the auto mechanics business.
C people in the music business.
D people in the computer business.